Festival - Holi

Holi is the festival of colors. It is celebrated in the month of March across India. The festival of Holi is celebrated for 2 days.

Holika Dahan takes place on the first day. Fire is lighted up using Wood, dried cow dung. This is a depiction of the win of good over evil.

The next day Holi is celebrated using the colors. People visit friends, relatives on this day and color them using different colors like Red, Blue, Pink, Yellow. They also eat various delicious food like Gujiya, Puran Poli, Laddoos.

Festival - Mahashivratri

Mahashivratri is celebrated in the honour of lord Shiva. This festival comes in the month of February or March. This day is significant as this is the wedding day of Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati.

Devotees perform puja of Lord Shiva by offering water, milk, bael leaves. Devotees also observe fast on this day.

Festival - Gudhi Padwa

Gudhi Padwa is the start of new year according to hindu calander. It is considered that lord Bramha created the universe on this day. It falls in the month of March or April.

People get up early and wear traditional clothes on this day. Beautiful rangoli is drawn in front of the door. A Gudhi is erected in home. Silk cloth, garland, Neem leaves, gathi is tied to a bamboo stick and an inverted silver or copper pot is kept on the top of the stick. This Gudhi is placed near window or door. Various dishes like Puran Poli, Shrikhand is prepared on this day.
